MOHAWK ROAD LOTS SOLD TO RACE CLUB FOR TAELS 1,300,000

New Property Will Be Used For Stabling

INVOLVES 15 MOW

Deal Is One Of The Largest Of Recent Years

Note—A report on the markets during the past week by Mr. Arakie appears in another page of this issue.

BY DAVID ARAKIE

One of the biggest transactions in landed properties in Shanghai for many years has just been put through. It involves a sum of one million three hundred thousand taels. The property runs from the old Jewish cemetery at the corner of Mohawk and Bubbling Well roads right down to the end of Weihaiwei Road, comprising a block of about 14 to 15 mow of land.

The area has been bought by the Shanghai Race Club to increase its stable accommodations, and the money for the land will be raised by means of debentures which the Race Club will issue and which will carry interest at the rate of seven percent.

The value per mow at the sale price works out about Tls. 30,000 and the Municipal valuation made two years ago is Tls. 9,000 per mow. The actual market value before the purchase was Tls. 20,000 per mow, but when the fact that the area has buildings standing on it is taken into consideration the purchase price will not seem excessive. A number of Chinese shops face the roadway, while residential houses are in the inside. The owners with one exception are Chinese, Mr. Ellis Ezra's property covering five mow fetching Tls. 110,000, the lots altogether comprising four. Lot 1498, which is not included in this four, standing on this block is also the old property of the Race Club.

VALUES GO UP

During the past two years Mohawk Road values have appreciated from between 25 to 30 percent. The only landed transaction that caps in importance the present one is that which the International Municipal Council made some six years ago when it bought the very large plot of land on which has been put up the magnificent structure which at present houses the administrative and other departments of the Council. The Council paid two million taels for that ground.

The other big transacations of recent times were the row of properties in Hongkew that were bought last year by Sir Robert Ho Tung from the Edward Ezra estate for a sum of Tls. 1,050,000, and the Sinza Road property belonging to the Edward Ezra estate bought by Mr. S. E. Shahmoon for Tls. 950,000.

There were real estate sales of a big magnitude a year-and-a-half ago when the Chinese ran Stock Exchange mad. The highest price then paid was for 9, 9A and 10, Hankow Road, to house a proposed Gold and Produce Exchange, the sale price being Tls. 1,250,000. It can now be bought, we understand, for Tls. 800,000. This property was really not worth the amount that was paid for it. It was inflated value, like all others bought by Chinese stock exchange promoters.

MANY BIG DEALS

During the Exchange fever, it is estimated, over ten million taels worth of land changed hands for building and erecting, while the actual investment was about 2[illegible] million taels, this including both the International and French Settlements. A great number of stock exchanges selected French town on account of the facilities of registration.

During the past year the assessed value of the buildings that had gone up is about 21 million taels, while the assessed value of new buildings in the previous year is placed at about 15 to 16 million taels. These figures only include the building activities in the International Settlement and do not take into consideration the number of big and many smaller buildings that had gone up in the French Settlement.

Although the Exchange slump caused many exchanges to sell out their properties landed values do not seem to have been affected very much, for buyers were ready to buy, and sales and purchases were

Auto Arrangements For Washington Ball

Special arrangements have been made for parking of cars tomorrow night to accommodate the big crowd planning to attend the Washington Birthday Ball at the New Carlton.

Automobiles driven by owners will be permitted to park in Burkill Road on the North side, in addition to the other established parking places.

Police traffic regulations provide that cars must approach the Carlton from the West and the automobiles must continue going East, that is in the direction The Bund. Cars are to be parked in Thibet Road, South of Nanking Road. Owner driven cars may be parked in Myburgh Road, on the West side, or at the parking place at the main entrance to the Race Club.

A direct telephone line is installed between the Carlton and the Thibet Road parking place and motor cars may be called from the cafe.

CHINA MEDICAL MISSIONERS END SESSIONS HERE

Interesting Morning And Afternoon Meetings Held

The last sessions of the China Medical Missionary Conference were held at McTyeire School last night, and today many of the medical missionaries who came from all over the Orient to attend the meeting, will leave for their homes again.

The morning session yesterday was devoted to 'Evangelism' and included two interesting discussions led by Dr. Fred Auld and Dr. H. Love. In the afternoon sectional meetings of the medicine, pharmacology and public health sections were held. Dr. Harvey Howard read an exceptionally good paper on trachoma at the public health section meeting.

In the closing evening session resolutions were passed thanking McTyeire School, Mr. and Mrs. George Fryer, Dr. and C. F. Johnson, the retiring president and members of his executive committee for their help in making the conference such a success. Resolutions were also passed to send greetings to Dr. Boone, one of the first presidents of the C. M. M. A., who is now in California, and to the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation for their grant for school scholarships and fellowships.

DR. PETER SPEAKS

After the business meeting Dr. W. W. Peter gave a demonstration and lecture on public health education in China, and read a long interesting paper on 'Observations on Public Health in The Orient.' Dr. Thomas Gillison of Tsinanfu led in the closing devotion.

At the second day's session of the Conference reports of the various committees appointed at the last Conference in Peking three years ago, were received and passed. The annual grant of $15,000. made by the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation was received with acclamation. The Ophthalmic Section of the Council on Health Education recommended the introduction of suitable measures for the protection of the eyes of pupils at school, nearly half of whom were found to be defective. Over 23,000 copies of medical books in Chinese had been sold and had realised $54,000.

In the afternoon, all the sections were well attended. Professor H. G. Earle had travelled from Hongkong to preside over the Physiology section and spoke on some aspects of basal metabolism as observed among Chinese students. Dr. Hsien Wu (Peking) drew attention to a new blood test for Kala-azar, which might be caled specific. The Pharmacological section celebrated its birth with a large attendance. Dr. B. E. Read urged the more extensive use of Chinese drugs of proved value in Western hospitals. A timely warning was given as to the prevailing use of patent and quack medicines in China, which might require special laws for their control. In this respect, Western firms were the first offenders, but unscrupulous Chinese had closely followed on their footsteps. The introduction of a special Chinese pharmacoepia revisel to suit modern needs was suggested, and a resolution was passed for the formation of a

THE CHINA PRESS will also broadcast late news dispatches and request phonograph selections will be played.

Radio broadcasting was successfully resumed from THE CHINA PRESS-Radio Corporation of China station on top of the Dollar building at 3 Canton Road last night with Prof. and Mrs. G. Zalsman, the well known local musicians, and Miss Eleanor Haber, known throughout the Far East as an exceptionally good entertainer, as the 'stars'.

Miss Haber, who made her first appearance before the radio last night, gave her famous character sketch, "The Shop Girl," and then upon request from a 'listener in,' gave "The Bride's First Visit To The Butcher," as an encore.

Prof. Zalsman sang one solo in fine baritone voice, Mrs. Zalsman sang two vocal solos, and Prof. and Mrs. Zalsman combined in an exceptionally well done duet.

Tonight the Frisco-Shanghai jazz kings from Maxim's Cafe will have the ether waves all to themselves in a selected orchestra program with specialty musical numbers. The orchestra, which plays at Maxim's every night to the delight of hundreds of dance-mad Shanghailanders, is composed of Mr. Guy Gillen, leader, and one of the classiest banjo twangers in captivity; Mr. R. E. Gillen, saxaphone; Mr. George Mugge, cornet; Mr. Bolton Wolf, trombone; Mr. Frank Blackinger; piano, and Mr. Tod Sanborn, drums.

SOME NEW TUNES

Tonight they will play four snappy syncopations for 'listeners in'. The numbers arranged for tonight are "Oriental Eyes," "Flower of Araby," 'Chicago," and "That Sampson and Deliah Melody."

In addition to the orchestra numbers Mr. R. E. Gillen and Mr. Bolton Wolf will join forces in a saxaphone and trombone duet. Mr. Gillen and Mr. Wolf made a decided hit in their last appearance for the radio fans and announcement that they have been secured again will unquestionably be good news to every possessor of a receiving set in Shanghai.

Last night's program went off very well. Miss Haber's character sketch of the sassy, gum chewing big city shop girl tickled every little curlyque in the ether and so pleased Mr. Roger L. Moore, who has a set in his apartments in the Astor House, that he telephoned in to request his favorite selection, "The Bride's First Visit To The Butcher Shop." Miss Haber was extremely good in both pieces and was sure in considerable verbal applause.

Washington Port Urges U. S. Silk Manufacturers To Move Mills To The Coast

Aims Are Told To China Delegation On Way To International Exposition In New York

When the President Grant, which sailed from here December 31, arrived in Seattle on January 6, the delegation was met at the dock by Collector of Customs, Mr. W. S. Lincoln, president of the Seattle Port Commission, and by large delegations from the China Club Seattle Chamber of Commerce and other commercial bodies.

The city of Seattle, with its imports of millions of dollars worth of raw silk, was urged as the logical location for a great silk manufacturing center by representatives of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon tendered the China merchants January 17 by the Chamber and the China Club.

Seattle speakers stressed the fact that imports of silk through Seattle last year were valued at G.$180,000,000. Because of violent fluctuations in the silk market and the high rate of insurance, shipments of silk follow the shortest route, the speakers pointed out. Seattle, they said, being the nearest American port to Asia has become America's greatest silk port. It has the transportation facilities, the climate and the sites for large silk manufacturing enterprises and Seattle business interests are urging that the silk be manufactured there instead of being rushed overland in special trains to New York and New Jersey.

The Seattle Chamber of Commerce, it was stated at the luncheon, is at present conducting negotiations with firms in Paterson, New Jersey, endeavoring to have them locate silk manufacturing plants in the Washington port.

The luncheon tendered the delegation was presided over by Mr. A. F. Haines, vice-president of the Admiral Oriental Line, and the speakers included Judge Thomas Burke, representing the China Club; Mayor Brown, who welcomed the visitors to Seattle, and Mr. Henry Blackwood, United States Deputy Collector of Customs, who welcomed them on behalf of the United States Government.

LLOYD GEORGE OUTSPOKEN IN CONDEMNATION OF RUHR PLAN

Calls French Action Blunder Of First Magnitude

PREMIER'S REPLY

Bonar Law Calls Action "Unwise But Not Wicked"

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday evening the Opposition united to support the Liberal Amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, urging the necessity of seeking effective guarantees against aggression under the League of Nations and of inviting the Council of the League to appoint a commission to report on the capacity of Germany to pay reparations.

Mr. Lloyd George described the occupation of the Ruhr as a "Psychological blunder of the first magnitude." He dwelt on the danger of revolution in Germany and scouted the idea that the French measures were actuated by the desire to obtain reparations. The former Prime Minister said that the plan, which had been carefully maturing at the Quai d'Orsay for years, had now gone and France was improvising new exploitation which would require 400,000 men instead of 40,000. He entreated the Government to rescue France from disaster, to approach America and then Britain and America.

The supporters of the amendment urged the intervention of the League of Nations.

Mr. Bonar Law, replying, denied that the occupation was wickedness but it was unwisdom. He said that the only point on which the Government differed from the Opposition was that, though the Government differed from the French, it did not think that the interests of the world would be helped by taking up an attitude antagonistic to France. Mr. Law pointed out that France declined to listen to the suggestion of intervention by the League of Nations in August and she was less likely to listen now that her pride was involved. Therefore our intervention was bound to be regarded as hostile by France. The Government desired to strengthen the League but with America, Germany and Russia outside what would become of it if the hostility of France and probably of Belgium and Italy was incurred?

Mr. Bonar Law denied that there had been a written or spoken word by the representative of the American Government suggesting willingness to intervene in the quarrels of Europe. He suggested that waiting in the hope of an opportunity of intervention was better than intervening when harm was bound to result. It was obviously difficult to keep troops in Germany while action with which we disapproved was going on but in the interests of the Entente they should remain as long as possible.

The amendment was rejected by 305 votes to 196.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Feb. 20.—M. Poincare, in a statement before the Foreign Affairs Committee, said that the French and Belgians have occupied 2,800 square kilometers of the Ruhr. The French and Belgians have taken possession of 14 200 out of a total of 14,500 coke furnaces, capable of producing 80,000 tons of coke daily.

M. Poincare stated that in consequence of sabotage 283 high officials have been expelled from the Ruhr and 55 from the Rhineland. These have been replaced by lower-ranked officials.

Seventy trains are at present running daily in the Ruhr as compared with 1,200 before the occupation but progress is being made, the Premier declared. One thousand and 26 trucks of coal have hitherto been removed to France and Belgium.

pharmacology commission to study this subject.

A very instructive paper on rickets in China was read by Dr. Ernest Tso. The addition of small doses of cod liver oil rapidly improved these conditions. Dr. Chas. Young displayed a series of excellent specimens under the microscope to illustrate his paper on Kala-azar. In the section of Parasitology, Dr. Faust dealt in a masterly manner with the work he had carried out in China during the last three years. He found that the disease known as Schistosomiasis japonica was quite common in central and southern China and proved that the causes were the same. The same small snail acting as intermediate host in Japan was found in the ponds of Soochow and the same drug, namely tartar emetic, was effective in both cases. It was quite possible that the infection in China might not be as intensive as in Japan though much work still remained to be undertaken.

Dealing with Photozoology Dr. Faust announced the discovery of a new kind of amoeba causing Dysentery in Peking. This organism had a rather elongate body with a tail and seemed to ingest bacilli as well as red cells which the ordinary amoeba did not. Dr. Wassell drew attention to the existence of Coccidiosis, due to Isospora hominis, in the Wuhan area. So far this is the first record of this disease in the first record outside of the island of Sumatra.

The sessions of the Public Health section seemed to be the best attended of all and gave rise to much bantering of words, from both men and women members present. Dr John B. Grant of the International Health Board read a suggestive paper on "The Essentials for the Initiation of Health Education in Schools," bringing forward the latest American and English ideas and supporting his contention with numerous statistics.

Dr. P. Wakefield described his experiences in health teaching and inspection among school boys, and obtained encouraging results from a systematic application of Western methods into China. A program of health courses in middle and primary schools was outlined by Miss Ida Lewis, while Dr. F C. Yen spoke on the teaching of preventive medicine in medical schools. These papers were ably discussed by Drs. S. M. Woo, C. H. Huntley, V. B. Appleton and C. T. Maitland besides several others.

The evening address was delivered by Dr. C. Noel Davis, Commissioner of Health of Shanghai Municipality, on "Pasteur," before a full audience. In well chosen words, Dr. Davis described the life of this great Frenchman from his youngest days until his death at the ripe age of 74, mourned by a whole world. Some interesting lantern slides were also thrown on the screen to illustrate work at the Pasteur Institute.

During the course of the day, many distinguished doctors visited the Conference. Among these was Dr. Norman White of the British Ministry of Health and now representative on the Health section of the League of Nations, who had been deputed by the latter body to make a study of Health conditions in China and Japan.

THIRD DAY

On the morning of the third day Dr. Edward Merrins, Editor of the China Medical Journal, read a paper on "Medical Ethics" prefacing his remarks with the situation as it existed in Europe and America, among various elements of the Christian Church, and the difficulty of expecting the same ethical standards in the East as in the West. Dr. Merrins dealt upon professional confidences, perils of child-birth, infanticide, artificial abortion, advertising, secret preparations, ambiguous guarantees of cure and protection against venereal disease. He recommended the formation of a small committee to draft a simple ethical code for observance among members. Several doctors present took part in the subsequent discussion.

In the afternoon, the Public Health group took up the question of Child Hygiene. Enormous progress had been made during the last few years, particularly in America, and women physicians had found this a most useful vocation. Two lady doctors, Drs. Louise Farnam and V. B. Appleton, read papers, the former on Health of Missionaries and the latter on Child Hygiene. Dr. Farnam speaking on behalf of Dr. Atwater (detained at Changsha) drew attention to the preventable causes of death among missionary families, over 6 percent of whom died of Diphtheria.

Dr. Appleton based the recommendations upon an extensive survey of school conditions in many provinces and said the Chinese were much riper for introducing child hygiene than most people thought. She hoped no delay would be made in teaching simple hygiene at home and schools.

Dr. Gray proposed the establishment of more summer institutes so as to take care of foreigners on one hand and Chinese on the other. Upon the strength of these and other papers, it was decided by the Section of Public Health to recommend to the Conference the appointment of more medical missionaries and nurses for Public Health purposes, the issuance of a program on child and school hygiene, and workable rules for the protection of all missionaries in future.

In the Section of Parasitology, Dr. Faust described the presence of Japanese River Water Fever in Central Yangtse Valley.

It was strange that this disease was mentioned in ancient Chinese textbooks on medicine but had been forgotten by the present generation. It was caused by a red water mite biting persons wading in the shallow water. Over 50 percent of cases ended fatally.

Both in the Ophthalmological and X Ray sections, Drs. Howard and Hodges presented a fine display of exhibits. The Council on Health Education and the National Health Association issues hundreds of new posters, many of them colored, giving life-like impressions of hygienic habits which should be developed at home and school. Practically all the illustrations are by Chinese artists and give a more accurate presentation of conditions in China than those merely copied from Western textbooks.

The evening general session was occupied with a paper on Nursing in China presented by Miss Cora Simpson, a graduate nurse from New Zealand.

London Doubts U. S. Rubber Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 20.—A dispatch from New York states that the reports that a corporation is being formed with a capital of $50,000,000 and aided by Mr. Henry Ford to cultivate rubber should be treated with all due reserve. The Government is reported to be proceeding with caution. It is not so much convinced that rubber manufacturers want to develop new sources of supply as to bring pressure on supporters of the restriction scheme. The War Department advocates rubbergrowing in the Philippine Islands but manufacturers are lukewarm in that connection, favoring the development of Latin-American sources should comprehensive action be taken.

Japanese Pearl Fishermen Strike

Apollo Theater Gets Priscilla Dean's 'Under Two Flags'

Dynamic Universal Star Is At Her Best In Ouida's Masterpiece

The dynamic personality of Priscilla Dean has never been given such forceful expression on the screen as in "Under Two Flags," the Universal-Jewel production of Ouida's famous novel, which opened at the Apollo Theater Monday night and continues all week, showing twice daily. The spirited girl, Cigarette, idol of a French regiment at Algiers, is the type Miss Dean portrays so well.

The excitement with which the film abounds was felt by every member of the huge company at Universal City participating in the production of this classic of the screen. They all lived in the atmosphere of Algeria, where the action of the story takes place.

A portion of the town of Algiers, with a faithful reproduction of the French barracks there, was built at the big studio. Members of the cast lived "in character" for several months. Miss Dean herself became so accustomed to the costumes of the play that it was difficult for her to readjust herself to habits of normal life when not actually working before the camera.

Several companies of French soldiers, properly uniformed and armed, were recruited by Tod Browning, the director, for use in various scenes. The harem of an Arab chief was reproduced in all the splendor that is a savage potentate's. Every reel of the film teems with color and dramatic action.

Some of the best players of the screen were engaged to appear with Miss Dean in "Under Two Flags." James Kirkwood, John Davidson and Stuart Holmes, all noted actors, were selected for prominent parts. This Universal-Jewel production is regarded as Miss Dean's supreme achievement on the screen.

If Louise de La Ramee (Ouida) could be alive today and see the glory of her creation as it is held in the limelight by critics and public, she might be recompensed for the ghastly error which dragged her to an obscure death in poverty. Her's is a masterpiece for the ages.

Arnold Urges U. S. Investments Here

(Reuter's Service)

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—Mr. Julean Arnold, Commercial Attache of the United States Legation in China, urged the investment of American capital in China to obtain the inside track of large enterprises, which, he said, were arising there, in an address today before several hundred Philadelphia businessmen interested in foreign trade.

"The thing we must do first," Mr. Arnold said, "is to invest great sums in industry in China for foreign countries are doing it, often with money they borrow from us."

Industrial motion pictures, he declared, should be used in China to show the advance in manufacturing methods.

SUN TELLS SCHOOL AUDIENCE WHY HE SEEKS REFORM

Canton Leader Addresses Hongkong "U" Students.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Feb. 20.—In response to an invitation from the University Union Dr. Sun Yat-sen today addressed a meeting of over 300 students in the Great Hall of the University.

On arriving at the University, Dr. Sun was borne shoulder high by the students.

Dr. Claud Severn, who presided, expressed regret at the absence of the Vice-Chancellor from the Colony and extended to Dr. Sun a hearty welcome from the University of Hongkong.

There were deafening cheers when Dr. Sun rose to speak. He addressed the meeting for considerably over half an hour. The difference between the Governments of Hongkong and of China had impressed him so much, he said, that he began to wonder why the British could do so much on the barren rock of Hongkong in 70 years while China during 2,000 years had not been able to do the same thing.

"In the administration of Hongkong, corruption is the exception and purity is the rule. On the contrary, he continued, in China corruption is the rule."

After completing his education in Hongkong, Dr. Sun went on, "I made a trip to Peking and found Peking 100 times more corrupt than Canton. In China we haven't a Government. We have been misroverned for many, many centuries, I accordingly gave up the idea of my profession of curing men and took up the task of curing the country."

In conclusion, Dr. Sun, addressing his fellow students, said: "You must learn the English example and we must carry the example of good government to all parts of China." (Prolonged cheers).

Mr. Hu Pei-lung, a Peking Government student from Szechuen, spoke in support of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and thanked their distinguished visitor.

Hongkong, Feb. 19.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen, who arrived here Saturday with Mr. Eugene Chen, his secretary, and several prominent Kuomintang members, is staying at the house of Mr. Yang Si-yen, Chief of the Financial Administration of Kwangtung.

His Excellency Sir Edward Stubb, Governor of Hongkong, gave a luncheon party in honor of the Republican leader and Mr. Chen yesterday. The public is much interested in the significant change of Dr. Sun's policy toward the Hongkong Government and welcomes it as an indication of Sino-British co-operation which will serve the best interests of Canton and the Crown Colony at present and those of China and Great Britain as a whole in future.

It is reported that after addressing the students at the University Union this morning, Dr. Sun will attend a reception which will be given in his honor by the Labor Unions. In view, however, of the many urgent telegrams from Canton requesting him to proceed to the provincial capital forthwith, Dr. Sun may decline the invitation of the Labor Union.

Dr. Sun and his party will leave for Canton tomorrow.

Canton, Feb. 19.—The New Year scenes in Canton are being enlivened this lunar year by the beautiful decorations of flowers, bunting and the emblems of good luck, intermingled with the national flags on the lintels of practically all shops and firms. The populace are getting ready to extend a hearty ovation to Dr. Sun Yat-sen whose arrival from Hongkong is being eagerly awaited.

The authorities here have advised the people not to use fire-crackers as a means of expressing their enthusiasm for Doctor Sun and his cause, for fear that the populace may mistake them for rifle reports and be unnecessarily disturbed.

Peking, Feb. 19.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen's departure for the South has evoked much interest from the Diplomatic Corps. While believing in Dr. Sun's declaration that it is not his intention to re-establish the Government that hitherto existed in Canton, the foreign diplomats are inclined to think that a considerable time has yet to elapse before he can fulfil his desire to effect reunification in this country. They say that the Northern militarists are reluctant to carry out the project of the disbandment of superfluous troops which Dr. Sun holds to be the sine qua non of national reunion.

On the eve of Doctor Sun's departure for Canton, a prominent foreign resident here received a telegram from Mr. Eugene Chen, Doctor Sun's secretary, stating that Doctor Sun's trip to the South will probably not last more than one month.

Canton, Feb. 19.—Over 3,000 anti-Sun Kwangsi troops, which were recently withdrawn from Canton, returned again to Kwanyinshan and Peiyuanshan during the last two days. They are digging trenches and mounting big guns on the hills. Much apprehension is felt by the populace over the possibility of a resumption of hostilities.

The Kwangsi troops under General Shen Yung-kang, General Shen Hung-ying's brother, at Shaochow, are reported to be fighting with the forces of Generals Hsiung Liu and Hsia Wen-ping, former lieutenants of General Chen Chiung-ming.

Sastri Confident Immigrants Will Be Better Treated

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Jan. 26.—The Bombay correspondent of the Associated Press states that Mr. S. Sastri, who has just returned to Bombay from his tour of the British Dominions, expressed an optimistic view concerning the future status of Indian immigrants in parts of the British Empire outside India. Mr. Sastri was sent last spring by the Government of India to study political and economic conditions in the British dominions with a view to improving the status of Indian residents in those countries. He is now preparing an elaborate report to be presented to the Government.

Mr. Sastri believes that the status of Indians in the Dominions will shortly be greatly improved. He found a very genuine sympathy in the Dominions he had visited, which he expected ultimately to take definite and practical shape. "Omitting the question of the franchise," Mr. Sastri said, "our countrymen are not suffering from any great hardships, and from a material point of view they are doing very well indeed."

Peking Syndicate Mines Successful

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 20.—At the meeting of the Peking Syndicate yesterday the Chairman said that the coalmines had shown a most satisfactory profit during the seven months ending January 31.

Referring to the suspension of the Banque Industrielle de Chine, the Chairman said that the reconstructed bank was managed by the Societe Francaise de Gerance, comprising a group of some of the most powerful banks in France. The Societe would receive for management five percent of the profits, the remaining 95 percent going to the Banque Industrielle, which would issue to its creditors Bons de Repartition for the exact amount of their debts. It was hoped that the annual distribution to holders of these Bons de Repartition would wipe out the debt of which they had been apportioned in 25 years. The Chairman thought that the losses incurred in respect of the Banque Industrielle were certainly very heavy but they might have been far worse.

Franco-Russian Agreement Likely

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 20.—The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian learns that a Franco-Russian rapprochement is among immediate possibilities. The name of Senator Demonzie is mentioned as likely to be appointed to Moscow.

The same correspondent, referring to the appointment of a committee by the Federation of British Industries relative to the Boxer Indemnity, says that British industrial leaders suggest that the Government might subsidise British colleges in China needing funds and also establish new educational institutions. There might also be a scheme bringing to Britain Chinese students to complete their training in industrial establishments.

Radio Programs Broadcasted

d'Amour, (Martini), accompanied by Mrs. Zalsman. Mrs. Zalsman then sang two delightful numbers, "Aria from Iphigenie," (Gluck) and "My Laddie," a Scotch love song, and then Prof. and Mrs. Zalsman joined in a duet, "Peane d'Amour."

Both have voices that carry very well over the radio and were the subjects of congratulations from several amateurs who called the station to report that everything, as usual, was clear and distinct.

Prof. Zalsman is quite enthusiastic concerning the possibilities of radio as an instrument of musical education in China, and has promised to have his musical pupils give a radio recital in the near future. A number of well known local singers and players will be included in the program.

Following the musical numbers last night Mr. Koo of the French Wireless Station, who had a number of Chinese as his guests at the broadcasting station, gave a short talk in Chinese on the radio, much to the satisfaction of the guests as well as the large number of Chinese who now have receiving sets. Mr. Koo, in the near future, will give several short talks on the radio for the benefit of Chinese 'listeners in'.

Treasures Found In Tomb Of Tutan Exceed All Hopes

(Reuter's Service)

Luxor, Feb. 19.—The treasures of untold richness, piled up in the annex to Tutankhamen's shrine room, include a great gold box, six feet high and four feet long. In it is the Pharaoh's jewel casket. The richness of the find may exceed anything the most sanguine could imagine.

There are also innumerable boxes, unguent jars, wide vessels and two beautiful statuettes of the King standing on a lion, heavily gilded. A mass of splendid jewellery was found in one of the boxes.

Chariots in the annex were found taken apart, the bodies being covered with gold plates, richly chiselled, with a colored inlay of glass and semi-precious stones. One of the most interesting finds was a litter for bearing the sacred boat in procession. Such a relic has never been found up to the present.

Mr. Carter is of opinion that the examination, registration, photography and treatment for removal of these treasures will occupy two years.

The captain of the ship, Captain Pennrich, stated at the last hearing that the men were engaged on the understanding that the voyage was to end in Shanghai.

Students Protest Against Execution Of Kinhan Strikers

The long defunct Students' Union, which came into prominence during the students' strike, gave a reception to Chinese newspapermen yesterday to ask for sympathetic support in their protest against the execution of strikers of the Peking-Hankow Railway. A number of students of Peking schools are in Shanghai now to agitate the local students to join in a general movement against the authorities, who have prohibited the holding of any meetings in Chinese territory.

A telegram was addressed to President Li Yuan-hung and Premier Chang Shou-tseng by the students' union yesterday taking General Wu Pei-fu to task for allowing his troops to execute the strikers.

LIVING COSTS UP

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Washington, Feb 20.—The Department of Labor announced today that the average American family paid one percent more for food in January than in December, and two percent more in January of this year than in the same month of 1922.

Mohawk Road Lots Sold To Race Club

easily made, the losses incurred on the re-sale by the exchanges being small.

The reason for this will be explained by the fact that Banks in Shanghai had a large amount of idle money in their hands caused by the absence of trade, and buyers of land got ready accommodation. Outside of this factor there was plenty of money for investment in Shanghai. It is estimated that the local Banks had for investment during this period some 60 to 70 million taels, although the floating cash at present is about 45 million taels.

There are numerous buyers here at present who want to buy properties that will return at least ten percent gross on the invested capital but at the high rate that owners are asking now for their properties which yield barely six percent no inducement is offered to the investor.

Many investors are waiting until the present slump in the land market will bring owners to a saner frame of mind. People with money can get a better rate for their money by laying out on mortgages which bring in a return of nine to ten percent per annum. Present values are considered to be very much inflated all over Shanghai. Even in the Bubbling Well district prices asked by owners hardly give a return to the possible buyer of more than five or six percent.

After winning the third race at Kiangwan yesterday, The Pari-Mutuel Stakes, Mr. Harry Morriss' chestnut Letchfield came through a winner in The Champions, taking the classic without much trouble, leading South Down by many lengths. The second pony was as many lengths ahead of Maresfield, another Morriss entrant, piloted into third place by Johnny Heard. Bob Stewart rode The Champions victor while J. Liou was up on South Down.

The big race of the meeting was not the only surprise of the day. Mr. Bremner rode Tone to first place in The Spring Cup, opening race, and a $44.10 dividend, while Wyolesfield gave win players a thrill with a $51.20 dividend. The second and fifth races saw better than twenty dollar win dividends.

But when Mr. Mackay brought Day Star in half a length ahead of Aerometer in a great race for The Farewell Cup, there were but 52 backers for the pony to win. The dividend was $273.

Conditions were the worst possible for enjoyment of racing. The course was miserably heavy because of the heavy rains of last week and a bitterly cold wind drove hard from the Northeast.

TILDEN WON FOUR NATIONAL TENNIS CROWNS IN 1922

During the season of 1922 William T. Tilden of Philadelphia won four national tennis championships. The official list of tournament winners shows that Tilden captured the national grass and clay court championships and with Vincent Richards won the national doubles event on grass courts. Paired with Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, he also won the national mixed doubles.

Tilden did not compete in the national indoor event last March, but with Sandy Wiener, his junior protege, advanced to the semifinal in the doubles event of the clay court championship at Indianapolis. Considering the strength of the opposition in the national events, the record made by Tilden has never been exceeded by any player.

A glance at the records of national competition indicates great progress during the past 10 years. Prior to 1912 only five championships were held annually. During the past year the United States Lawn Tennis Association conducted 14 national championships with a total of 24 events.

The first national tennis championship took place in 1881, when an event for men in singles and doubles was held. Women players held their first tournament in 1887, while the men's indoor championship started in 1890. Twenty years later, in 1910, the first clay court tourney was played.

Several more national championships may be added within the next few years. A junior clay court event has been advocated, while it is also possible to hold a national event on asphalt courts, out of doors. The girls' championship might be divided into two classes, girls and junior, similar to the present classification for boys. A mixed doubles event for boys and girls is another possibility. Prominent tennis officials are at present adverse to the idea.

Tomorrow's Game, 8:00 p.m., on Y.M.C.A. floor: Bearcats vs. Stripes.

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Foreign League basketball will resume, after the New Year holidays, tomorrow evening, when Kenny Irle's Bearcats are scheduled to meet the Stripes in a game on the Y.M.C.A. floor.

This game marks the last appearance of the Bearcats and Stripes this season, next Monday's battle between the Blues and S. A. S. ending the local season. Irle's cohorts are figured to run away with the Stripes, who were trimmed by the American School two weeks ago by a 74 to 16 score. The Bearcats are out for a big score, in revenge over the Stripes, who won out by two points in their last encounter, when Irle was absent.

Next Monday, the last big fight between the leading quintets will be staged, and a hard battle is expected, although the Blues have won three easy games from the schoolboys.

RUSSIAN BENEFIT NETS $576.20 FOR REFUGEES HERE

A total of $576.20 was raised at the recent boxing and wrestling tournament held at the Town Hall for the benefit of Russian refugees here and the sum has been turned over to the Russian Co-operative Society, according to an announcement made last night by G. H. Parkes, promoter of the show.

INTERPORT CRICKET

At a meeting of members of the Singapore Cricket Club last week the Chairman stated that the S.C.C. had invited Hongkong to bring down a side in May of this year, but sufficient time had not yet elapsed for a reply to be received. Hongkong would be extended a very hearty welcome, but it was rather improbable that they would come. If they did, he suggested that the S.C.C. should endeavor to get another team in order to make a triangular contest.

BRITISH JOCKEY IS "SAVAGED" ON RACE COURSE

In a 'savaging' incident at Warwick races recently V. Smyth, one of the foremost riders, was pulled off his horse by another.

It happened at the post for the second race. Smyth was riding Shandon Bells, next to him as the field were lining up being Chuck-a-Penny, and this animal suddenly seized hold of his left arm. Wagstaffe, the rider of Chuck-a-Penny, used his whip vigorously on the 'savage' to make him let go, and the starter also brought his into play, but Chuck-a-Penny held on to his grip and finally pulled Smyth out of the saddle.

After this misbehaviour at one end Chuck-a-Penny distinguished himself at the other by dead-heating with Eton and dividing the spoils.

An ambulance brought back the injured jockey, whose wrist was found to have been badly mauled. Four stitches were put in it and Smyth was subsequently inoculated. He suffered excruciating pain. Some little time ago he injured a foot at Worcester and had to 'rest,' and it is hard luck for him to be now laid aside for the final stage of the season.

Incidents of this kind are very rare. Two of the best known involved Fred Archer and Otto Madden. Archer was 'savaged' on Newmarket Heath by a horse called Muley Edris in revenge for being punished in a race just before. He remembered Archer and went for him in the most vicious manner. Madden was seized by the arm while going to the post for a race at Brighton, pulled off his horse to the ground, and then picked up and shaken violently by the throat.

Inquiry by the stewards into the incident failed to show Chuck-a-Penny in the light of a confirmed savage, but they advised that he be run in a muzzle in future.

New York, Jan. 26.—Athletic organisations throughout the country, especially in the East, are paying greater attention than ever before to the development of distance runners in preparation for the 1924 Olympiad at Paris. America's weakness in distance events, especially the marathon, has always been a handicap in international competition and a general effort is being made to bolster America's strength in this direction by giving a prominent place in recent athletic contests to distance races.

It appears that the trouble arose when the Poles advanced to the line of demarcation drawn by the League of Nations last week. The Amur Railway has ceased to exist as such. Part of it has been absorbed by the Ussuri Railway and part by the Chita Railway (formerly known as the Trans-Baikal Railway). The boundary point on the ex-Amur Railway between the two new holders is Magdagotchi Station. This change has been made owing to the ex-Amur Railway having no funds, no workshops of its own and no turntables, and consequently not being in a position to repair its permanent way or rolling stock.

The Department of Foreign Trade has issued an order to the effect that all timber accumulated at shipping points in the Far East may be exported without interference but export duties must be paid on it. Timber belonging to companies holding forest concessions may be exported duty free in order to kill the activities of small peasant timber-fellers and to encourage wealthy companies to take up forest concessions.

The Department of State Fisheries in Vladivostok has received instructions from Moscow to draw up and submit for approval new laws and regulations for the protection of fisheries.

A commission has arrived from Moscow to inspect the port of Vladivostok and to report on the state of shipping there. The commission represents the Central Administration of Marine Transport.

The latest reports regarding the discovery of naphtha in the Kronotzky district of Kamtchatka in the valley of the River Botchalevka state that the area of oil-bearing land is very large and rich in napatha of good quality. The Geological Society of Vladivostok has received permission and a subsidy of 15,000 gold roubles from the authorities to make investigations on the spot. The authorities announce that they have no intention of allowing small claims to be staked out but intend to reserve the whole area as a concession for one large firm.

CHU TSAO-PANG IS SLATED FOR NEW FUKIEN TUCHUN

Wang Yung-chien Will Secure Governorship If He Is Willing

(China Press Correspondence)

Foochow, Feb. 14.—As a result of the negotiations between Premier Chang Shou-tseng and Tupan Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang, Major-General Chu Tsao-pang has been sent to Fukien. The first step of the plan is to have Chu perform a mission of pacification while the next will be the appointment of Chu as the Tuli (director) of Military Rehabilitation of the province.

Other details of the plan include the appointment of General Wang Yung-chien of Foochow Military Co-director and General Chwang Tze-ping of Amoy Defence Commissioner of Southern Fukien.

Previous to Chu's arrival, General Lu had despatched an emissary to approach General Wang on the matter, but the latter has expressed no definite views. Meanwhile, General Sung Chuan-fang of Kiangsi has also despatched his side-de-camp, Pei Wen-kwei, to negotiate secretly with Wang, who is now host to Pei in his Foochow residence, thus indicating his alienation from Chu.

It is understood that the present scheme of the Central Government and Chekiang is to change the co-director of Wang to the Civil Governorship and at the same time force Admiral Liu Kwan-hsiun and his navy to leave Fukien in order to secure the endorsement of General Wang Yung-chien.

Obituary

MR. ADELBERT M. HICKS

Mr. Adelbert Myer Hicks, one of the best known and most popular members of the Shanghai American community died at the General Hospital yesterday afternoon at six o'clock. "Del" Hicks as he was known to his many friends, was ready to sail on the President Wilson with his family, but had to cancel passage owing to what seemed to be a slight attack of influenza. He apparently had practically recovered from his illness but in order to fully recover went to the General Hospital and later pneumonia set in, causing his death.

Mr. Hicks had been the manager of A. F. Thane and Co. in the Orient, with headquarters here in Shanghai, for the past four years. He was an active member of the Rotary Club for several years and was also a member of the American Club, Shanghai Club and Columbia Country Club. He was born in Rochester, New York, 52 years ago and came to Shanghai for A. F. Thane and Co. from San Francisco where he had been in the export and import business. Previous to that he had resided in Seattle for twenty-five years.

Funeral services will be held in the Chapel at Bubbling Well Cemetery this afternoon at five o'clock. The Rev. C. F. McRae will conduct the funeral service.

To have known Del Hicks was to have known a true friend, a man who was always smiling and ready and willing to do anything and everything he could for his friends. He had a wide acquaintance among the business men of Shanghai with whom he came in contact in the many lines of trade and his loss will be sincerely mourned. He leaves a widow and son twelve years old who are returning to America shortly.

WELSH SUBJECTS ON PROGRAM AT B.W.A. MEETING

Paper By Mrs. Morgan And Songs By Mrs. Cradock Please Audience

Members of the Literary Department of the British Women's Association enjoyed a delightful afternoon yesterday when Mrs. Morgan read a paper on "Welsh Authors" and Mrs. D. D. Cradock sang a group of quaint Welsh folk songs.

In presenting her subject, Mrs. Morgan gave a survey of the country and its people, of the historical background of Wales, of the decadence of the language, and of the rise of the Sunday Schools.

She carried her audience back to the days of the 'bards and druids, of strolling minstrels and story tellers and traced the rise of the short story and novel from the bards to the modern by Welsh writers. Mrs. Morgan illustrated her talk with black and white crayon enlargements of old castles and abbeys still found in Wales. Mrs. T. A. Hodges, who presided at the meeting, announced that Mr. Lofting would present a paper on "Walt Whitman" at the meeting of the Literary Department on March 6.

Weddings

DOLAN—RINALDO.

Yesterday in Tientsin the wedding took place of Mr. James S. Dolan, of Shanghai, and Mrs. Alice Rinaldo, of New York.

The ceremony was performed at the American Consulate-General.

Mr. Dolan, one of the best known members of the local American community, is manager of the China-Java Export Company and is a prominent Mason. He is a Past Master of Sinim Lodge and is at present Master of the Keystone Royal Arch Chapter. He is a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason and a member of Nomad Oasis of the Shrine. He is a native of Boston and has been many years in the Far East.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolan are spending their honeymoon in the North and expect to return to Shanghai, where they will make their home, about the 25th of the month.

WHITEHOUSE—TINNEY

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Tinney, only child of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Tinney of Harpenden, England, and Mr. W. H. Whitehouse took place yesterday morning at the Holy Trinity Cathedral. The Very Rev. Dean C. J. F. Symons officiated.

The bride who was given away by Mr. F. B. Winter wore a gown of ivory morrocain, embroidered with crystal beads, a white fur coat and ermine hat completed the costume and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. A. B. Puddicombe acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the house of Mrs. Winter at 833, Avenue Foch, and later Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse left for Hangchow where they will spend their honeymoon.

"Time" Advocates Action By Powers To Save China

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 16.—In an editorial article on China's parlous financial position, the Times notes that the Government has "scraped through" the New Year settlement but says that as it still owes some £20,000,000 in foreign loans and some £10,000,000 for goods, it might be imagined that the lenders were despondent. The paper, however, cites a statement from its Peking correspondent that the lenders are confident of the eventual payment, seeing that the whole debt of China is a trifle compared with her capacity for payment, while she has never made a default.

The paper adds that how much longer the Government can go on under the present system without sailing into bankruptcy is doubtful and urges the speedy adoption by the Treaty Powers of some such policy as was approved by the Washington Conference as the only way to save the Chinese Government.

The Times, in conclusion, says that there is no risk of China's collapse but unless her foreign creditors bestir themselves the dissatisfaction and embarrassments on their part do not seem likely to be lessened.

FAR EAST MAILS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday in answer to questions the Postmaster-General stated that the Government was considering the mail service to the Far East and hoped to effect improvement.

Abraham Lincoln, Inventor

Abraham Lincoln, Inventor

FEW people know that President Abraham Lincoln was an inventor, but he was. Living on small rivers, he knew the difficulty of steamboats passing over sandbars. In 1849 he secured a patent on this device. At the forward part of the vessel is an arrangement resembling a bellows. Airchambers were filled when desired, lifting the boat high in the water and permitting passage over obstructions.

Americans At Oxford

Another occasion for appraisal of the effects of the Rhodes scholarships is afforded in the annual report, just issued in England, which shows that in 1921-22 there were at Oxford university nearly 800 Rhodes scholars drawn about equally from the British Dominions and the United States. The subjects most favored are law, natural science and modern history. The Rhodes men have won a fair proportion of prizes, including last year the much-esteemed Chancellor's prize for an English essay, and they have gained a good representation on the university athletic teams. The English are inclined to regard them in the main as men of good all-round capacity rather than of exceptional talent. The Manchester Guardian, a journal which would naturally encourage expedients for promoting Anglo-Saxon and world-wide amity, says:

"Coming as they do at a maturer age than the average undergraduate, and from a constituency widely remote from that of the English schools, they bring with them a spirit at once critical and receptive; they form a leaven that freshens the social life of the university; they do something to educate the Englishman out of intolerance or indifference toward the Dominion or American point of view; and they themselves learn to appreciate English life and ideas in a favorable setting."

From the first, Rhodes scholars from the United States have been favorably impressed with the advantages that Oxford has granted them in fulfilment of the terms of Cecil Rhodes's will. There has not, however, been the wide response to the offer that might have been expected, and the American quota has not always been filled; but those who have desired to avail themselves of the opportunity have been men fitted to profit by it. Almost without exception they have returned to the United States with the view that English university education is more thorough than our own. This view is also held by a man who has just gone to Oxford for study after experience as a teacher at a New England college:

"The teaching is better than any I have ever seen elsewhere, and the system more thorough, and there is no doubt as to the quality of the men turned out. If there are wealthy slackers among the number, they are inevitable and they do not dominate as they did at X—."

Some Americans, it should be said, have formed the opinion that athletics and idleness dominated Oxford to a greater extent than the better American colleges. But all agree that the able student or the man of brilliant gifts enjoys a position of very solid respect in the university life. On the whole, too, Rhodes scholars seem to have been satisfied with the social opportunities of Oxford, and if they have known that their presence was not really relished in the most aristocratic colleges, they have found congenial friends and have had pleasant relations with undergraduates and teachers.

In the postwar world Oxford has somewhat changed its educational arrangements, having added the Ph.D. degree to attract from the English-speaking nations students who formerly went to Germany. The view has now and then been expressed that Oxford assumed the responsibility for this wider graduate work without having fully prepared for it. A student, not a Rhodes scholar, who recently went from America, writes:

"There is no special way of dealing with graduate students, as there is in American universities, and a man doing research is thrown very much on his own resources, which is a good thing in itself, but I should be glad of more supervision than I get.

It is also said by some Americans that Oxford has not been able to maintain the teaching staffs at the former level in some important branches. Some even suggest that it would be better if the Rhodes scholarships admitted students to all the English universities, including the newer ones. But in that case the student from overseas would miss the "Oxford stamp." Perhaps the thing to be most hoped for is that the ancient university will acquire the modern technic without losing the old culture.

South China May Get New Summer Resort

There are prospects of a new summer resort being developed in south China, according to visiting doctors. At the present time there is no place large enough or accessible to accommodate those who desire to get away from the intense heat. On February 9 a party of doctors crossed over from Hongkong to Kowloon to climb Da Ma Shan (Big Horse Mountain) which can easily be seen from the harbor. It is 3,160 feet high, the highest mountain in the immediate vicinity of Hongkong and Canton. It can be reached by taking an automobile part of the way on the road around the island. A climb over good paths of two hours and a half brings one to the top. It would be possible for a road to be built from the shore. The party did not find water higher than five hundred feet from the top but there is a small valley in which a dam might be built. It is proposed that a few families interested in the project build bamboo huts near the top this summer and keep daily records of temperature, rain fall and wind.

Banque To Reopen; Plans Bond Issue

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 15.—The branches of the "Societe Francaise de Gerance de la Banque Industrielle de Chine" at Shanghai, Hankow, Peking and Tientsin will open on February 26 and the other branches will be opened shortly.

The above new company is formed of a group of leading French banks headed by the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas, with a capital of 10,000,000 francs, with the object of managing the business of the Banque Industrielle till the latter has settled all the claims of its creditors and recovered full liberty of action.

The new company is undertaking general banking business under its own name, its engagements not being binding on the Banque Industrielle, which alone will remain responsible for the settlement of actual liabilities.

Ninety-five percent of the profits of the new company will be handed over to the Banque Industrielle and the remainder retained as remuneration for management.

The Banque Industrielle de Chine will soon propose to its creditors "Bons de Repartition," redeemable in 25 years and not carrying interest. The "Bons" will be made out in the francs equivalent of the various currencies, calculated at the rate on July 26, 1921.

In accordance with various agreements between the Chinese and French Governments creditors will be given the option of exchanging these "Bons de Repartition" for new bonds in gold dollars with interest at five percent redeemable in 23 years by means of the proceeds of the French portion of the Boxer Indemnity. Exchange will be made on the basis of 12.92½ francs for one gold dollar.

Rubber Mission To U. S. Is Satisfie

(Reuter's service)

London, Feb. 19.—The Committee, appointed by the Rubber growers' Association to proceed to the United States to discuss restriction scheme, has returned.

A member of the Committee stated that the result of the visit was in every way satisfactory.

No difficulty whatever had been found in convincing American manufacturers of the equity of the scheme. He said that the Philippines plantation proposal was also taken seriously.

Share Market

In their weekly report on the share market, Messrs. J. P. Bisset and Company write as follows:

There has been considerably more activity on the local share market during the past week. There is an increasing demand for "Rubbers" with few shares offering and the market in this stock closes strong at the quotations listed. Langkats (combined) are in good demand at quoted prices with few sellers. Ewo Cottons firmed up to Taels 15.5(Cash and Taels 16 March but close easier. Shanghai Docks have appreciated to Taels 100 cash but close rather easy at this price. There are strong buyers of all Debentures. The market generally, especially in "Rubbers," closes strong with anticipation of increased prices after the Chinese New Year.

China Agrees To Pay French In Gold

Peking, Feb. 19.—A report states that the Government has accepted the demand of M. de Fleurian, French Minister, that the payment of the French share of the Boxer Indemnity be made in gold francs, instead of paper francs.

A number of Parliamentarians have already dispatched a circular telegram, criticising the decision of the Government in this connection. The message points out that each paper franc is worth only $.125, whereas each gold franc is equivalent to $.325. It adds that since the French share of the Boxer Indemnity approximately amounts to Francs 391,500,000, the loss to China would be over seventy million francs, if payment should be made in gold francs.

Review Of Shanghai Trade

BY DAVID ARAKIE

Owing to the holidays of the Chinese New Year there has been less interest evinced in the rice market. In view of the embargo placed by the Hunan Government on the export of rice from that Province, arrivals of rice from Kiangse and Anwei have decreased, and the demand for foreign rice is almost likely to increase shortly.

Hunan rice have advanced to $9.50 per one-and-a-half piculs. Since the beginning of the season last October some 200,000 bags of Hunan rice were exported from that Province. The producing capacity of Hunan alone is some 30 to 40 million bags, and it will appear that the exports so far from the Hunan Province are small compared with the yield.

The major portion of the crop is consumed in the Province itself. Since the announcement holders of Hunan rice have put up their price, the appreciation in value since the opening of the season being some Tls. 1.50 per one-and-a-half piculs.

It is interesting to mention that last season Kiangse purchased almost no rice from outside sources while Chekiang bought very trifling quantities, as the rice crops were average ones.

CHEKIANG'S NEEDS

It is estimated that the Chekiang Province will take at least 200,000 tons of Chinese or foreign rice until the next crop comes on the market in October. Should the price be cheaper than at present ruling it is quite likely that larger purchases would be made in the Shanghai market by Chekiang.

On the other hand, any sharp advance in the cereal will cause the inhabitants to resort to substitutes likes maize, kaoling, etc. Chekiang and Kiangse are very large rice-eating areas, and the demand from Chekiang will again become insistent.

The producing countries, such as Burma, Indo-China and Siam report good rice crops this season. The exportable surplus from Saigon this season is estimated at 1,300,000 tons, from Bangkok about a million tons and from Rangoon two-and-a-half million tons. It is not expected that prices in these centers will go up very much, and, therefore, the wants of China should be met.

EUROPE BUYS FROM HERE

Finding it impossible to get shipments of sesamum seeds made from Shanghai earlier than April, some of the Genoa buyers have been content to take a small lot for shipment in April. The business done with Genoa and Trieste for that month shipment at £22 per ton during the past few days comprised some 500 tons.

The European market for groundnuts has appreciated to a buying rate of £21.10 per ton, a difference of 10 shillings, and some 1,000 tons will shortly go forward to Dunkirk, Marseilles and Rotterdam from Tsingtau. Inquiries received in Shanghai for this product from the consumers have not been converted to business owing to the fact that supplies here at present are small and the Shanghai rate is slightly higher than that obtaining in Tsingtau.

The local quotation is Tls. 7.10 per picul, the equivalent of about £22 per ton, and the Tsingtau rate about yen 9 per picul, a difference of ten shillings per ton. The brisk demand for the product is believed to be transpired by the high price obtaining for sesamum seeds, the oil mills preferring groundnuts to sesamum seeds for crushing merely on the score of its comparative cheapness.

There is a demand from the United States as well for the 28 to 30 ounce groundnuts at G.$125 per ton cif New York, but owing to the fact that there are small supplies of these in Shanghai the business was diverted this week to Tsingtau, some 500 tons being reported done. For peanut oil in bulk the American buying quotation is G.$9.20 per cwt, and the Shanghai rate about G.$9.60 per cwt. Business in this line is, therefore, difficult.

OIL MILLS CLOSE

There is no movement in beans, as the oil mills locally close down today for about two weeks. Europe is buying at £12 per ton, at which some business was done this week for near shipment to Hull. The European market is also steady for bean oil, the buying rate being £1.15 per cwt. This is a little above the Dairen quotation, the rate in Dairen being yen 16 per picul.

After the New Year holidays there is expected to be a brisk demand for all the seasonal products, particularly sesamum seeds, groundnuts and groundnut oil. Supplies will also then come in more freely.

The boom in the Japanese vegetable oil market is growing in volume, aided by a shortage in seeds which is now reported, for not only leading vegetable oils are going up in Japan but also minor ones. Japanese seed prices are higher. There is a big demand for flaxseed from Japan but holders here are reluctant to sell as supplies are small.

WIRE NAILS REQUIRED

Except for a little activity the week in the metals market of Shanghai has been somewhat uninteresting. A fairly good trade in wire nails for Shanghai and Dairen was done, while Dairen has also bought pipes from the United States, the orders going through Shanghai. Prices are still high and the tendency is still for higher rates. Cabled quotations from London show appreciable advances in almost all along the iron and steel lines.

It seems evident that prices have reached the bottom, unless there is an enormous drop in the cost of production. At any rate, there are no signs of weakness in values, many of the steel works which have been prone to grant concessions are asking for higher prices. It is quite likely that Chinese interest in prices and business will be revived after the holidays and an attempt made to seize present market values to ensure getting supplies before they go up further.

BUYING IN LONDON

The Far East is buying black sheets in the London market. A Reuter commercial cable states that a number of Continental mills on the score of the fuel shortage being experienced at present have decided to cancel their old contracts on the plea of force majeure. Should these manufacturers be compelled to cover in the London or American markets there should result an artificial inflation of values.

The London Metals Exchange reports further activity and prices ruling now are higher than last week. For instance standard copper is quoted at 66 against 65¾ for spot, electrolytic copper at £72¾ against £72½, tin £186⅞ against £184¾, lead £28¾ against £28¼, spelter £35¼ against £34¾, and galvanised sheets £19¼ per ton, pig iron 107-6 against 105, heavy steel scrap £5 against 82-6 per ton, Sheffield steel billets £8. 7. 6 against £8 per ton, iron crown bars £11 against £10.15 per ton. Electrolytic copper in New York has gone up further and the quotation today is 15⅛. The position is improving on account of the good demand. The steel production in the United States last month reached 3,251,694 tons against £2,779,890 in December last.

DEATH

HICKS: Adelbert Myer Hicks, beloved husband of Alice Hicks and beloved father of Fisher Hicks, passed away at the General Hospital on Tuesday February 20. Funeral services will be held in the Chapel, Bubbling Well Cemetery, today Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Frederic Harrison

ON his ninetieth birthday Frederic Harrison, famous English philosopher and publicist who died recently, said:

May my end be early, speedy and peaceful! I regret nothing done or said in my long and busy life. I withdraw nothing, and am not conscious of any change in mind. In youth I was called a revolutionary; in old age I am called a reactionary; both names alike untrue. A lonely widower, I have no happiness to look for. I ask nothing, I seek nothing, I fear nothing. I have done and said all that I ever could have done and said. There is nothing more. I am ready, and await the call.

The last years of his long, multifarious and fortunate life were passed in eighteenth-century Bath, Jane Austen's city. He had Trollope at his bedside. At 90 he was reading Sophocles again, without glasses. His hearing was good. He walked two or three miles a day, and slept eight hours at night. His memory of eighty-five years of world changes was unimpaired. It reached back to the days before railroads and telegraphs. On the day he died men were talking across the Atlantic. He had known most of the great figures of the Victorian age. He had known Italian revolutionists and French Communists. He worked vigorously for trade unionism in the '60s; he warned it against its excesses and the "direct action" madness three or four years ago.

He was climbing mountains as late as 1914. He had stood on the top of Mont Blanc with Leslie Stephen. He was climbing Welsh hills when he was past 80. He stuck to tennis till the doctors forbade him to play. The extent of his activities was scarcely known to the younger generation, which had a general sense of him as the leader of a secession movement in the English Positivist Church, so to speak, an impetuous radical, a historian and an essayist. He had been a Professor of Jurisprudence and International Law. He was a municipal reformer. His thought and his style were remarkably clear. He was perfectly independent in his opinions. If in his latter days he took a sombre view of the scheme of things, he never lost sight of the complexity of the world and the recuperative capacity of humanity.

He fought vainly against woman suffrage. He distrusted the power of the new English democracy, which he regarded as without moral or intellectual training for the power so suddenly put into its hands. So he didn't have the optimism supposed to be inherent in "an unabashed Victorian." He had a great sense of humor. When he was reading Mr. Strachey's "Eminent Victorians" he cried out in surprise: "Why, this is too much! This is biography." Whatever he thought of Mr. Strachey's satirical rearrangements, Harrison's lives of Cromwell and Chatham may be called, in a far different sense, biography. His greatest achievement, though, was to keep young through almost ninety-two years of fruitful life.

His New Interest

BY S. E. KISER

"Go prove that you possess the right
Of self-respect," said she;
"Show that you're not afraid to fight,
And that your liver isn't white,
And then come back to me."

He took a chance, and went to France,
And later he returned;
The lady, with a haughty glance,
Awoke him from his blissful trance,
And still his pleading spurned.

"Go, first, and fit yourself," she said,
"To give me fair support;
Prove that there's something in your head;
Men's darlings must be dressed and fed;
Obtain a job, in short.

He went away, with hope renewed,
And asked from door to door,
Receiving answers that were rude,
But victory, at last, ensued,
Then he returned once more.

"Go prove that you can work and win
Among the strong," said she;
"Throw out your chest, project your chin,
Make others yield where you step in,
And then come back to me."

He hurried forth, and left her where
His path and hers had met;
He occupies a cushioned chair,
And soon will be a millionaire;
She's waiting for him yet.

The Decadence Of Europe

(Signor Nitti, who was recently Premier of Italy, and in that capacity worked earnestly for a policy of moderation and reconciliation in Europe, has written a new book, which will be published very shortly. It is entitled "The Decadence of Europe." The book is dedicated by the author to his son and to all Italians who died in "the belief that they were fighting and dying for the liberty of the peoples and for equal justice for conquerors and conquered.")

BY SIGNOR NITTI

The whole of Europe is in a state of decadence. It has ceased to be the continent which once controlled the production and the trade of the world; it has seen the decline of its vast expansion and the pride of its intellectual life.

The conquered are prostrated. Austria can no longer live. Hungary, mutilated and outraged, is in fearful torments. Turkey and Islam, after many acts of injustice, are in flames. Russia, after many errors and Communistic follies, is returning towards a capitalistic government; but her hatred is growing more and more bitter towards those conquerors who, during the war, drove her to the greatest sacrifices, but, when she was crushed by force, took advantage of her fall, the fall of a friendly people, to attempt to restore the most brutal absolutism by reactionary armies, and then attempted to impose a system of capitulations, in order to obtain the monopoly of her raw material and her hidden resources, by means of credits and the imposition of guarantees for the credits extended to her former Government. In the future, even if Bolshevism has to sustain the grave charge of having reduced Russia to extreme misery by its experiments in Communism, it will have the glory of having defended the liberty of the Russian people, and of having renounced every offer of credit rather than forfeit or curtail Russian liberty in the face of the foreigner.

How can Russia, moreover, have even a vestige of trustfulness after what has happened in Germany? Germany laid down her arms, overcome more by famine than by military force, at a time when the solemn pledges of the Entente and the solemn declaration of Wilson promised a just peace and equal treatment for victors and vanquished. Afterwards, as a result of the treaties, Germany was dismembered and tortured like no other country in modern history. The treaties have been the negation of the promises of the Entente and of the proclamation solemnly made in the name of America; and the application of the treaties has been a continuous violation of the treaties themselves. But if the violations had been of use to the victors, they would have explicable, even if they could not have been justified.

On the contrary, now that economic unity has been broken, now that Europe is divided into a series of small rival States, now that the driving power of European economy, which used to be provided by Germany, is broken, the whole of Europe is in a decline. Great Britain has made the most tremendous efforts, has imposed upon herself the severest sacrifices, and has accepted perhaps the heaviest taxes in Europe; by great effort she has succeeded in obtaining good currency and a clean balance sheet. But the whole of British industry is in a state of privation. Forty-one percent of the productions of Britain is intended for exportation especially to Europe. But, after the collapse of Central in the harbors, industry is in an unhealthy state, unemployment is chronic.

Even the United States of America, which are now the arbiters of the world's markets, see their productions stagnating and the crisis enduring. They have to refuse the handicraft of Europe to the widest extent, and they have to Europe, in every kind of way, two or three milliards of dollars. But now they have confidence no longer. How can one lend for long to a continent where all are at strife, and where attention is paid rather to appropriating, in the name of victory, the wealth produced by others than to producing wealth on one's own account? Germany used to be an enormous center of consumption, the most important in the Continent; but German currency now represents almost nothing. The consumption of even the most indispensable articles has been reduced to the extent of from 40 to 60 percent.

THE STATES OF EUROPE

France succeeds in drawing from taxation only half her expenditure. She has debts of at least 300 milliards, and is increasing them. The French people have been persuaded that their expense, or at least half of them, ought to be paid by Germany. Expenses are not being reduced by this method, but the German indemnity will be reduced (after all Germany's resources have been taken from her), not indeed to the 18, or 15, or even 12 milliards that were to be assigned to France, but to a figure not much less than would be sufficient to pay the expenses of the army of occupation.

Italy has made immense sacrifices, and, while her economic resources are much less than those of France, she has made better efforts to restore her finances. But in Italy also a quarter or a third of the expenditure is still being paid by new debts. Trade is fettered, industry is largely in difficulties, credit is scarce, and the great mobility of Italian manpower is at an end. In the year which preceded the war, in 1913, Italy sent 872,000 men to foreign countries—376,000 to the United States, 111,000 to the Argentine, 90,000 to Switzerland, 83,000 to France, 82,000 to Germany, 39,000 to Austria-Hungary, 32,000 to Brazil, etc. Where can Italy send her men now? Not to the United States, which have curtailed immigration because Europe having diminished its consumption and its credit, has reduced not only the demand for products, but also the capacity of paying for them; not to Germany or to the countries of the former Austro Hungarian monarchy, which are in very great difficulties; not to the Argentine or Brazil, where the repercussion of the crisis is widely felt; not to Switzerland, where factories are being closed for lack of work; not to the other South American States, where the crisis is spreading; not to France, which, since the war, has no capacity for expansion. If Italy could raise her emigration to the figures of 1911-13, her internal poverty would be alleviated, and perhaps also the greater part of her internal disorders would come to an end. But if Germany does not consume America does not sell, and if America does not sell she cannot provide work for the Italians.

Almost all the States of Europe have large deficits in their budgets. Some of them, including almost all the defeated countries, Rumania, Poland, Portugal, etc., have absolutely exhausted their credit. There are currencies which have depreciated a hundredfold, and even a thousandfold. The European power of consumption has diminished by a third. Europe which has become a debtor-continent shattered into many rival States, has, outside Europe, an ever-decreasing importance. Before, there was a single Austria-Hungary with its fierce nationalist struggles. Now, Poland is an Austria-Hungary in which the parties have changed places, and the most ignorant peoples claim the right to dominate with violence the most cultured and progressive peoples; and in the whole of Central Europe and the Balkans new Austria-Hungaries have been formed.

A GRADUAL DECAY

He who lives in the midst of strife is not often aware of danger. Europe, in the midst of its manifold activities, is not conscious of its danger. Since decay is produced slowly, yesterday is not different from today: but, as each day passes, Europe sinks rapidly into decay. There is economic decadence, there is intellectual decadence, and what is more grievous, there is moral decadence. Efforts towards elevation are replaced by efforts directed to destruction. At least two-thirds of the universities either are not functioning or have no means and have reduced their activities. No one foresaw, during the war, that the military paradox which we are now witnessing would have been realised—that Europe after the war, when the vanquished have been disarmed, would have more men under arms than before the war. France alone, with all her demographic difficulties, with a population which does not increase but even tends to diminish, has more men under arms than Germany had before the war; and Germany had then to defend herself against Russia and France, which had powerful armies.

Europe cannot get back her credit unless she has peace; and she cannot have peace unless she destroys this mechanism of violence which has been created by ill-feeling and expanded by ignorance.

One problem alone, therefore, dominates the life of the world—peace.

Since the peace of violence has not brought about a condition of vitality, the peace of justice must be found and the solidarity which has been violated must be restored. The world-crisis will not come to an end without the re-settlement of Europe. The re-settlement of Europe will never take place except by abandoning armies of occupation, re-establishing the sovereignty of every State, and abandoning absurd indemnities, which do harm not only to the morality, but also to the intelligence of the victors.

Europe is already seething with fresh wars; and the almost feverish preparation of aeroplanes, of asphyxiating and poisonous gases and of submarines can arouse nothing but anxiety. Is not the solidarity of the victors at an end even now?

THE ISOLATION OF FRANCE

France has less than two-thirds of the population of Germany. In thirty years—a short period in the life of nations—she will probably have less than half that of Germany, which, even though humiliated, plundered, and violated, is still the most compact ethnic organism in Europe.

The Germans have twice won great wars with France—in 1815 and in 1870. They have never tried to destroy the national unity of France, or to kill her economically. The acts of France since 1919 do not correspond to her traditions, and her representatives have only isolated the noble country which we loved, and which we still love as the center of civilisation and light. France has had long periods of trepidation and anxiety. She has seen an unmerited peril pass over the head of her sons. She has not yet serenity of judgment. But when she feels the spiritual isolation which she goes to meet every day, when she sees that her resources cannot be developed unless there is peace, and that her greatest strength is to be found by returning to her past traditions, then this lamentable period will be forgotten. In the interests of France, which has a noble mission in European civilisation, we want Frenchmen to know the whole truth. We want France to return to those ideals which were not only her greatness but also her salvation. The men who speak a different language are not the heirs of the great French tradition, but rather its destroyers.

Great Britain—and it will be her glory—after great efforts in the war, has made the greatest efforts for peace. She had declared herself ready to make every renunciation, provided that Europe is reconstructed and that there is an end to the work of destruction, which is poisoning the life of the world. France will perceive, sooner or later, that her greatest glory will be to follow Britain on the same path. But, as long as the present distress lasts, it is the powerful voice of the United States alone that will be able to bring the real world of peace.

Can Eighteen Love?

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"I can't live without him," writes "Eighteen." I will never be able to love any one else as I do Jack. My people don't approve of him. My friends don't like him. He hurts me and disappoints me and breaks engagements. But when he returns he is so dear and sweet that I forgive and forget. Mother says he is unreliable. Father claims he has no character. Brother insists he has a streak of yellow. But I know there is no one else who can ever mean what he does to me. I know you will understand.

"I love John," writes 'Twenty-seven.' "He appeals to me strongly. But I can see that he has grave faults and I wonder if we'll be happy together. Will you try to help me decide. You see he is one of those men who follow their own whim. If it suits him to keep appointments, he does. But I know there is no one else can't count on him. And much as I care for him, I wonder ——

In the difference of viewpoint between "Eighteen's" cry that she cannot live without her vacillating lover and "Twenty-seven's" wonder whether she can live with an unreliable man, lies the story of the wisdom and change years and maturity bring.

"Eighteen is in love with love She craves romance. She mantles her sweetheart in her dreams. She sees her own dreams and feels her longings so vividly that they—rather than the object on which she fastens them—occupy her attention.

A little opposition and romance becomes more insistent. Youth is so eager, so filled with vitality, so surcharged with new and untested emotions, that any strong feeling appears to have eternal qualities. And if youth stayed at eighteen, its first great romance might be its life romance.

But the woman of twenty-five is not the same person she was a few years before. Experience has changed her. Her emotions have altered with her personality. And the boy for whom she fancied she would be willing to die when she was eighteen may bore her to death at twenty-five.

"Twenty-seven" has learned that love is not all. It can't be in a world where there are so many considerations to be met each day. Emotion is not the whole foundation of marriage. There is a need for mental and even for spiritual congeniality if a man and a woman are to dwell together in harmony.

Thrills have their charm, but they are evanescent, momentary. No one can live happily with another unless that other is a reliable, stable, loyal soul. Experience teaches this. So "Eighteen" must trust something to the advice of maturity, which has tested life's values.

Mother As A Handicap

BY DOROTHY DIX

Do mothers realise how often they blight their daughters' lives?

Of course most women hold to the theory that mother love is a sort of divine inspiration that gives every woman who has borne children the wisdom to deal with them and direct their steps aright. Nothing could be farther from the truth. There are millions of women who love their children well enough to die for them, who through lack of sense and judgment do a deadlier wrong to their sons and daughters than malice itself could invent.

Especially do these mothers handicap their daughters, for the boys break away and make their own lives, but the girls are bound to their environment and are the predestined victims of mother's whims and crochets.

There is, for instance, the morbid mother who keeps her daughter tied to her apron string. She is strong for the mother-and-daughter-companionship stuff; and tells you that she and Mamie are just like sisters, and that wherever one goes the other goes.

Fine for mother, but perfectly rotten for Mamie. For mother blinks the fact that while age clings to youth and enjoys it, and feeds upon it, age presents no attractions whatever to youth. Mamie's society may be enough for mother, but mother's society isn't enough for Mamie, by a long shot.

Mother doesn't realise that she is cutting Mamie off from all of the natural pleasures of her time of life, and that she is effectually blocking her chances of matrimony. For Mamie has no girl friends or boy friends. She doesn't run with any crowd, she's left out of all of the young fun making and to all intents and purposes she is a contemporary of mother and her middle-aged friends.

Certainly every mother should be on intimate terms with her daughter, but a woman can make no greater mistake than to monopolise her girls and keep them away from the companions of their own age. The gang spirit is the spirit of youth, and unless a girl belongs to the lodge, and can give its high signs and passwords, she is done for so far as having a good time is concerned.

Then there is the woman who can only be described as the "picking" mother. She is the little critic on the hearth, alright. There is no possible fault that could be found with a girl, or her friends, or her beaux, that she doesn's discover it and call attention to it.

A certain amount of vanity that makes a girl carry herself forty percent above her looks instead of thirty percent under them, is absolutely necessary to beauty. Mother makes even her pretty daughter homely by always telling her that she is too tall and thin and looks like a ramrod, or that she is too short and fat and resembles a feather bed. Any girl who has to listen to this verdict on her personal appearance, day after day, gets a meaching, deprecatory air that takes all the snap and ginger out of her, and that would make a Lillian Russel pass for a wash lady.

Then mother's out with her little hammer for every boy who comes to the house. She makes fun of their clothes, she ridicules the size of their hands and feet, she derides their singing, and she makes witty stories out of the snatches of youthful conversation that she overhears.

Knowing that her friends are going to be turned into figures of fun makes the girl self conscious, and the young people themselves sense the air of hostility in the house, so that they seldom come. They go to some place where the girl's mother holds out the glad hand, and where the old people and young laugh together, instead of the old laughing at the young.

Many a mother who wonder why her daughter, who is pretty and attractive, does not receive the attention that some homely girl does, could find the answer in herself. You still have to bait your trap with sugar to catch flies.

Then there is the mother who is the demon chaperon. She labors under the conviction that her precious Maud would be kidnapped if she got two yards from her, and that every man has some nefarious designs upon her. Therefore, when Maud is asked to go to a place mother has to be dragged along too, and whenever Maud has a man caller mother sits within earshot, so she can hear every word.

The result is that Maud stays at home, alone. Not many youths in these days have money enough to buy three theater tickets and etceteras. Nor is it stimulating to conversation to know that one is being eavesdropped. It isn't because young people want to say anything that is improper that they don't relish having it overheard. It's just that a silly thing sounds too silly to the cold and critical listener.

Naturally a good mother keeps a wary eye on her daughter, and knows where she goes, and the character of those with whom she plays about. Also she sees that she is at home at a proper hour, but beyond that a nice American girl needs no watch dog on the job. Nothing is easier than to chaperon a girl into the old maids home. If a girl has been brought up to the age of twenty with the right sort of principles instilled in her she needs no chaperon, and if she hasn't had modesty, and honor, and self-respect bred into her, then all the chaperoning in the world won't save her.

Finally, there is the obsessing mother. You know what I mean—the sort of woman whose own personality fills her house so full that her husband and children are just shadows in it. She monopolises the conversation, she bosses the job. She's the whole works.

The girl with that sort of mother is always a silent, quiet little thing, with no chance to show off what she is, or develop any personality, and she is generally shelved unless she takes her courage in both hands and flees from home, and the smothering shelter of mother's wings.

What sort of a mother are you? Are you a help or a hindrance to your children?

"Merry Companions"

GENTLEMEN ALL AND MERRY COMPANIONS. By Ralph Bergengren. Illustrated by John Sloan. 247 pp. Boston: B. J. Brimmer Company. G. $2.

These pirates of Ralph Bergengren's are in a class by themselves. No doubt they are quite as cruel and bloodthirsty as any of the buccaneers who sailed the Spanish Main, but their deeds of violence are all committed offstage, so to speak, and we are permitted to see them only in their hours of leisure or when engaged in the milder or less successful of the marauding expeditions. We first meet them at their headquarters on the Island of Nonesuch. There are ten of them, all wearing carpet slippers and seated in rocking chairs, and all profoundly bored. It occurs to one of them that life on shore would be less monotonous if they only knew how to read, and they decide to kidnap a schoolma'am to expound to them the mysteries of the printed page. Their method of procedure is simplicity itself. They set sail for Cape Cod, inquire the way to the nearest schoolhouse, and carry off Mehitable Perkins. Mehitable is no beauty, but she is an excellent disciplinarian. She rules the pirate band with a rod of iron. Rum drinking and the use of profane language are strictly prohibited, and, though the mental equipment of her pupils is very meagre, she succeeds in imparting to them the rudiments of an education. The trouble begins when they come to conjugate the verb 'to love." When Mehitable finally returns to Cape Cod, the pirate band is diminished by one.

In another story the same pirates undertake to bring up a baby which they find on an abandoned ship. In this case all goes well until some of the pirates discover that a combination of milk and rum makes a surprisingly delectable beverage. As there is only one cow on the island the milk supply proves inadequate to meet the requirements of the baby and still leave something for the lovers of milk punch. There is mutiny in the air, and the baby's fate hangs in the balance until the problem is solved in an unexpected way.

Burdened with crime as they are, or pretend to be, these gentlemen adventurers are as merry a crew as ever scuttled a ship or forced a luckless victim to walk the plank. The fact that none of them has met the fate they all so richly deserve inspires the hope that they may yet have more adventures for Mr. Bergengren to record.

You Will Do a Better Day's Work!

—and you will feel fitter and fresher all day—if you begin the day with Sanatogen.

In these days of keen competition, the man who "wins through" is the man who does a better day's work than his competitors.

When you come to analyse it, the quantity and quality of the work you do depends, to a large extent, on the amount of nerve-energy you possess. It is nerve-energy that enables you to make the most of your brains, and supplies the "driving power" essential to success.

Now, Sanatogen definitely increases nerve-energy—does not merely stimulate or excite, but increases it to a remarkable degree. The result is that when you take Sanatogen you do more and better work than you have been been accustomed to do. Nor is this a temporary effect; it continues day by day, week by week.

Dr. Claude L. Wheeler says—

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from langour, a gain of strength and activity, alertness of mind, and an increased resisting-power to diseases"

Begin by Taking Sanatogen Regularly Every Morning with or After Breakfast

This will enable you to acquire that extra nerve-energy which spells success in every business and profession; which gives you a zest and a delight in your work; which makes you keen and concentrated, alert and self confident, and thus gives you the power to realise your ambitions.

Take the first step today, not tomorrow—now not presently. Sanatogen can be obtained of all Chemists and Dispensaries.

Soviets Awaiting Action Of Poland

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 19.—The Moscow correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says that M. Kameneff, the acting Chairman of the Council of People's Commissaries, interviewed, said that whether Russia would become involved in the events in Western Europe depended entirely on Poland. Mobilisation of the latter would be considered as a hostile act.

M. Kameneff said that there were no signs yet of a rapprochement between France and Russia but it was only a question of time till France would be compelled to realise that she must give up her military ambitions if she wished to remain a leading nation.

Questioned with regard to the change of Japanese policy in connection with M. Joffe's visit to Japan, M. Kameneff said:

"We are persuaded that Japan stands, much as Russia did in 1903, on the eve of events of great social and political significance when a complete change of policy is not out of the question.

"We are convinced that before long those circles will be in power in Japan who favor a rapprochement with Russia and the evacuation of Russian Sakhalien, which is a preliminary condition."

In conclusion M. Kameneff declared that relations between Britain and Russia were distinctly worse under the new British Government. He described Marquess Curzon as still living in the 19th Century and dreaming of cutting off Russia from the East altogether.

SCIENTIST HONORED

(French Wireless through Reuter)

OIL BORERS QUIT

U. S. Court For China

Chemische Fabrik Griesheim Elektron, Plaintiff, v. International Banking Corporation, Defendant.

Order, Filed February 16, 1923.

Syllabus. (By the Court).

Intervention: The Doctrine of Fischer v. Stone ante p. reaffirmed.

Messrs. Hanson, McNeill, Jones & Wright, per G. H. Wright, for the applicant.

Messrs. Fessenden & Holcomb, per Mr. S. Fessenden, contra.

Lobingier, J.: After the overruling of the demurrer the party who was alleged to have paid the fund in question to the Public Trustee asked leave to intervene and in support of its application filed an affidavit reciting that it had executed an indemnity bond in the defendant upon the payment of the said fund. It submitted to the jurisdiction of this Court and offered to "abide by any judgment which may be rendered therein" etc. but in the affidavit it is stated that otherwise it will have to resist and attempt to enforce the said indemnity bond.

We may agree with plaintiff's counsel that the applicant has no right to intervene in this cause and also with the contention that this affidavit does not show the probability of a multiplicity of suits. Certainly if this were an application to enjoin plaintiff from suing (as was most of the cases referred to by plaintiff's counsel) it could not be granted.

But, entirely aside from the right of a party to intervene, the Court has discretion, where it would seem to be in the interests of all concerned, to permit the addition of new parties to litigation. This Court has already exercised that discretion in cases where the reasons were no stronger than here. In the last of these cases it was pointed out that where an alien asks leave to intervene and agrees to abide by the judgment of this Court, it is highly desireable to grant the application so as to avoid a possible conflict of jurisdiction and to lesson the number of suits.

Nor is this entirely a matter of discretion, for:

"When a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties, the Court shall cause them to be brought in."

It is true that plaintiff is not directly interested in the relations between defendant and the intervenor; but plaintiff is not the only party to be considered in determining this point. Litigation should be so adjusted as to be least burdensome upon all parties and in this case it would be manifestly to the interests of defendant to have its entirely liability adjudicated in one proceeding.

Finally, we can see no real prejudice to plaintiff. The assistance which the proposed intervenor would render the defendant would not necessarily be greater in the action than out of it for in any event both are equally interested in resisting plaintiff's claim.

On the whole we are of the opinion that Bradley & Co. should be admitted as a party to this proceeding and it is accordingly allowed to file its petition within ten days from this date, each party to have a similar period to answer the same.

By The Court —
Charles S. Lobingier,
Judge

Villagers Make Protest Against City Fire Station

In compliance with the request of more than 60 representatives of shops and other busines houses in the village of Zaukyadoo, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs has lodged a protest with the Senior Consul against the attempt of the Shanghai Municipal Council to build a fire station in the village, on the ground that the Council has infringed China's sovereign rights in thus establishing a municipal building in a district outside of the Settlement.

The villagers of Zaukyadoo further complain that since July 1, 1921, the Shanghai Municipal Council has assigned numbers of the houses adjacent to the municipal road in the district and has collected police tax from their residents, without any permission from the Chinese government.

Protests in this connection have also been addressed by the villagers to the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce and the Chinese Advisory Board of the Ratepayers Association.

FEWER STRIKES

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Feb. 19.—The number of strikers is diminishing in the mines of the Nord and the Pas de Calais and in some instances work has been completely resumed. The situation is unchanged in the Loire, the Gard and the Moselle. In the Aveyron and the Tarn work is complete. At Carmaux the strike order was rejected almost unanimously.
